Carfang, Cozzolino Honored As Year's Outstanding Brothers

Most Outstanding Alumnus Anthony Carfang (Psi, '69) displays his new-look award with Executive Vice President John Russo (Psi, '72), who nominated Carfang.

Alpha Phi Delta Foundation Executive Director Anthony J. Carfang and Andrew M. Cozzolino, the Fraternity's Vice President for Public Relations, joined exclusive company when they were named the year's Most Outstanding Alumnus and Undergraduate, respectively, at Alpha Phi Delta's 70th Annual Convention in Williamsburg, Va.

Anthony Carfang (Psi, 1969) was named Most Outstanding Alumnus for his efforts to guide the organization into the next century. In nominating Tony for the honor, Executive Vice President John J. Russo and Executive Secretary Joseph L. Rossi cited Tony's publication of a "Catalog of Estate and Memorial Giving"; his efforts to provide Alpha Phi Delta with an accurate and thorough alumni directory; and Tony's tireless work to reconstruct the organization's mailing list. As a result, the whereabouts of more than 6,000 "lost" brothers have been discovered, and the Foundation in the past year saw an unprecedented level of alumni financial support.

President's Message

Alpha Phi Delta Building On Recent Successes

By Joseph Rahtelli

It is with pleasure that I welcome you into the seventy-seventh year of our existence. Due to the effort of many of our dedicated alumni and undergraduates, we have accomplished many goals that years ago may have been considered dreams. Through these labors, our organization has reached heights never before attained.

We have more undergraduates, active chapters and alumni clubs. We are still growing as you read these words. Our expansion is leading us to such schools as the University of Connecticut, the University of Georgia and the University of Pennsylvania, the reactivation of Lambda chapter.

With respect to alumni, we haven't seen the development of potential alumni groups since the early 1930s. However, an increase in alumni involvement has come in another form. The Alpha Phi Delta Foundation has grown tremendously by the generosity of our membership showing their devotion, allegiance, and mostly their love for Alpha Phi Delta.

Because of the commitment that the Foundation has shown, we are able to produce two important functions within Alpha Phi Delta. As we have done in the past, the Kleos will be distributed to the entire membership. We will also be training the leaders of our organization (undergraduate and alumni alike), so that they may be prepared to take on their elected or appointed responsibilities.

National President
Joseph Rahtelli

As we step forward, we are making new and bold attempts to strengthen some of our most prized traditions. We are reaffirming the oath to our Italian-American heritage. We have intentions to become active in the celebration of the quincentennial of Columbus's discovery of America. You will also be reading about a future cultural trip to Italy by our group. We will be encouraging our youth to develop events with Italian organizations and promoting our culture through their chapters.

Plans are being made to have our summer conventions the way we have had them in the past. The 1991 Summer Convention will be held in beautiful Cape Cod, Massachusetts (see page 8). Not only will it be the type of convention that brothers, couples and families will want to go to for their vacation, but you will want to bring your friends. Things being deliberated are: day and night child care; nightly entertainment for the owls; day trips for

Brotherhood Profile: Cleveland's Ben Colombi

Benedict A. Colombi (Kappa, 1929), who celebrated his 80th birthday August 8, 1990, has been a regular at Alpha Phi Delta Summer Conventions since the Great Depression, regaling undergraduates and alumni alike with stories of the fraternity's early days. In fact, Ben's one of the few brothers today who can talk of meeting the seven founders of Alpha Phi Delta at the Annual Conventions.

"My first Convention was in 1930 in Buffalo, New York. Conventions then were much larger, and outside of a few honorary members, no one was over 40 years of age. Nearly all the members of our two founding chapters, Alpha, at Syracuse, and Beta, at Columbia, were in attendance.

"The following year I proposed the 'open door' policy. At the time Alpha Phi Delta was open only to Italian Americans. I figured we'd proved that we were as good as any other Greek organization, and that we should open our Fraternity to men of all heritages. Well, they wanted to run me out of town. Some of the older brothers wanted to 'tar and feather' me. In fact, one of them said 'tell that cowboy from out west to mind his own business.'" It took another 34 years for Alpha Phi Delta to open its doors to all college men.

After graduation from Case Institute of Technology (later to become Case Western Reserve University), Ben became Chief Engineer for the Chef-Boy-R-Dee food company. In 1940, he married his wife, Gertrude. (They celebrated their 50th Anniversary June 1, 1990.) He later became Chief Engineer for Design and Construction in the City of Cleveland. Meanwhile, Ben has stayed active in Alpha Phi Delta, as a member and President of the Cleveland Alumni Club, and as the 10th District Governor. Ben was named Most Outstanding Alumnus in 1982 for his support of Gamma Epsilon chapter at Cleveland State University.

He says he's most proud of his children. "One daughter is a Merit Scholar graduate at Texas Christian University. Another graduated in Pre-Med from Ohio State University, while my son is considered the top neurosurgeon in the Midwest. I'm proud and happy about them and I attribute all of it to my wife."

If you have a suggestion for the subject of a future Brotherhood Profile, please send it to Andrew Cripps, Kleos Editor, 811 Atlantic Avenue, N. Wildwood, NJ 08260.

RECORD NUMBER, AMOUNT OF SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED

Klineburger gets first $1,500 award; 21 students receive aid in 1990

The Scholarship Division of the Alpha Phi Delta Foundation is giving a record high twenty-one awards in 1990, announced Chairman Stanley W. Raffa (Delta, 1949) at the Awards Dinner of the National Summer Convention August 24 in Williamsburg, Virginia.

The top award of $1,500 goes to Richard Klineburger of Gamma Tau chapter (Neumann College, Aston, Pa.), a Political Science/Law major. Two $1,000 awards went to Peter Lloyd, Gamma Zeta chapter (Villanova University, Villanova, Pa.), who is majoring in Accounting, and Wayne D. Leishman, Theta Beta chapter (New York University, New York City), who's majoring in Economics. Eighteen $750 awards were also awarded in Williamsburg.

Raffa said the awards are given to students who demonstrated both by grades and financial need, their dedication to their field of study. Included are potential doctors, lawyers, teachers, and biologists, he said. He added that the selection of this year's awards was especially difficult for the eight trustees.

1990 Total: $17,000

The Scholarship Division not only set a record for the number of awards in 1990, but for the total amount given, $17,000. The awards are paid out from the interest accrued on donations to the Scholarship Division. It takes $10,000 to underwrite each award, but Raffa said the Scholarship Division gratefully welcomes all contributions.

Raffa praised one contributor, James S. Giampiccolo, for establishing two scholarships in 1990, one in the name of his parents, Carmelo and Carmela Giampiccolo, the other in the name of him and his wife, Theresa.

1990 Scholarship Recipients

The 1990 Scholarship recipients include:

$1,500 Alpha Phi Delta Award: Richard F. Klineburger; Gamma Tau, Neumann College; Political Science/Law. $1,000 Alpha Phi Delta Award: Peter Lloyd; Gamma Zeta, Villanova University; Accounting. $1,000 Alpha Phi Delta Award: Wayne D. Lambda Chapter Reactivated

By James Lentini, Vice President for Expansion, and Andrew Cripps

The Lambda chapter of Alpha Phi Delta at the University of Pennsylvania was formally reactivated on October 5, 1990 at a ceremony at the fraternity house of Gamma Eta chapter at Trenton State University.

Lambda chapter is active for the first time since 1941.

The new brothers of Lambda chapter are Kaihan P. Krippendorff of Philadelphia; Anthony M. Mirabile, Jr. of Lafayette Hill, Pa.; Manish H. Shah of Rockville, Maryland; and Michael R. Unglo of Pittsburgh.

After the initiation, former 4th District Governor Matthew LoMonaco presented the new brothers with the chapter's original charter, awarded November 4, 1922, which he had kept in his possession for nearly 30 years.

N.Y.I.T. Chartered

The Executive Committee of Alpha Phi Delta Fraternity voted unanimously August 20, 1990, at the Williamsburg convention to charter the colony at the New York Institute of Technology, making it our Gamma Phi chapter.

With these two additions, Alpha Phi Delta reaches a record high number of active chapters—35. Gamma Phi becomes our 68th chapter, more than 50% of which are active. This is a high not reached since before World War II.

Carfang, Cozzolino Honored As Outstanding

Tony, who lives in Evanston, Illinois with his wife, Carol, daughter Laura, and sons Anthony Jr., Andrew and Robert, is a principal in the Chicago financial consulting firm of Treasury Strategies, Inc.

Tony served as Alpha Phi Delta's 36th National President between 1980 and 1982. Among Tony's proudest achievements is the establishment of the Alpha Phi Delta Foundation in 1981. Tony also served as Executive Vice President between 1978 and 1980.

After a standing ovation from the awards banquet audience Thursday, August 23, at the Cascades Restaurant in Williamsburg, Tony quoted the acceptance speech of Past National President and 1977 Most Outstanding Alumnus Julius L. Zangrille. "He said 'If you can give back to Alpha Phi Delta half of what it gives you, you too will be an outstanding alumnus,'" remembered Tony.

Andrew Cozzolino, (Beta Beta, 1990) earned the Most Outstanding Undergraduate award for his unselfish devotion to Alpha Phi Delta at the chapter and national levels. Andy, a Brooklyn, New York resident, served his chapter in several offices, and served in two national offices during the past year; as Vice President for Undergraduate Affairs and as Vice President for Public Relations. A prolific letter writer, Andy made a point of writing a welcoming letter to each newly inducted brother, and remained in contact with each chapter.

Andy graduated this spring from Manhattan College with Cum Laude honors. A Finance major, he attained a 3.72 grade point average in his major, and a 3.43 overall. He was on the dean's list four times, and is included in the volumes Outstanding Young Men of America (1989) and Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges (1990).

Overcome by emotion at the announcement of his award, Andy humbly thanked the audience while choking back tears.

The new brothers of Lambda chapter receive the chapter's original charter from former 4th District Governor Matthew LoMonaco.

TRADITIONAL ITALIAN CHRISTMAS A UNIQUE CELEBRATION

By Samuel Catanzano

As Vice President for Cultural Affairs, I thought it might be interesting to research the customs and traditions surrounding the various holidays and feast days observed by our ancestors. Many of the customs and traditions are still carried out today in Italy, but have not been carried to this country for us to follow. Perhaps some of the Alpha Phi Delta brothers may want to adopt some of these traditional celebrations for their families.

Christmas celebrations in Italy center around the birth of the baby Jesus. As a result of this concentration on the significance of Christmas, the joviality of the holiday in other countries may seem to be absent in Italy. Also, Italy has not adopted the tradition of the Christmas tree, per se, to any extent.

The Christmas season in Italy lasts for three weeks, beginning eight days before Christmas, and ending with the Feast of the Epiphany on January 6. During this period, members of the family offer prayers and light candles, and a Presepio (manger with nativity scene) is prepared in every home.

The Presepio was originated by St. Francis of Assisi in the thirteenth century. He used people and live animals to depict the scene at Bethlehem. The popularity of this custom spread, and craftsmen and artists made miniature scenes for homes. The Presepio in the Italian home has always been the center of interest. The nativity scene appears also in the shop windows, in windows of houses and even in open doorways.

Frequently, the Presepio is arranged on the Ceppo, a pyramid-shaped wood structure with several shelves. The base of the Ceppo is reserved for the Presepio. The other shelves hold ornaments, fruit, candy, and small presents, and are decorated with colored paper and gilded pine cones. Candles are placed at the corners of the shelves. The Ceppo is in the tradition of the Tree of Light, which became the Christmas tree in other countries.

"Children in Italy receive their gifts on January 6, the Feast of the Epiphany."

Christmas Eve is a family affair. A meatless supper lasts for several hours until it is time to go to midnight mass. Seafood dominates the meal, which could include delicacies such as capitone (eel), calimari (squid) and baccala (codfish).

Christmas Day dinners may include pasta, capon and various vegetables. Pizzelles, cookies and other pastries are also around to satisfy the sweet tooth. Christmas Day is a sacred day with time set aside for church attendance.

Children in Italy receive their gifts on January 6, the Feast of the Epiphany. Traditionally, on the eve of the Epiphany, the children placed their shoes on the hearth, but the modern custom is to hang stockings, in anticipation of the visit of "La Befana," an old, ugly witch. According to legend, "La Befana" was asked by the Wise Men for directions to Bethlehem. They explained their mission and invited her to join them, but she declined.

The Ceppo, the "Christmas Tree" in an Italian home.

Later, a shepherd asked her to go, but she said no again. After dark, a great light in the heavens and a band of angels made "La Befana" realize her mistake, and she rushed out to find the Wise Men or the shepherd. But she was too late to find the Christ child. Now she goes from house to house on the eve of the Epiphany leaving gifts for the sleeping children of Italy.

Sammartino, Mario, Benzo Honored; Embon Named Director

Dr. Peter Sammartino (Eta, 1922), founder and president and chancellor emeritus of Fairleigh Dickinson University, has been named the recipient of the Religious Teachers Filippini "Humanitarian Award."

Sammartino, Alpha Phi Delta's tenth National President, was honored for his contributions and dedication to higher education September 15, 1990 in Morristown, N.J.

A pioneer in New Jersey education, Sammartino founded Fairleigh Dickinson, and has been instrumental in the development of five college campuses in New Jersey, one in England, and one at St. Croix, Virgin Islands. He also started New Jersey's first dental school at Fairleigh Dickinson.

Albert B. Mario (Beta Iota, 1955), associate professor of business at SUNY Institute of Technology at Utica-Rome is being recognized by the United University Professions, the State University of New York and the Governor's Office of Employee Relations. Mario founded and directs the SUNY Institute's Management Assistance Center, which has helped improve the economic stability of the State of New York. He received his honor October 2, 1990 at SUNY's Albany campus. (From the Utica Observer-Dispatch.)

Camillo A. Benzo, Ph.D (Beta Iota), professor of anatomy and cell biology at the Health Science Center, Syracuse, has been named a State University of New York Distinguished Teaching Professor.

Benzo, a graduate of Utica College and the University of Pennsylvania, is the director of the Central New York Body Donation Program at the Health Science Center. (From the Utica Observer Dispatch.)

Frank C. Embon (Beta Lambda, 1956) has been appointed the first director of human resources and services at Allentown College of St. Francis de Sales in Center Valley, Pa. He's responsible for all matters related to employment. Embon comes to Allentown College after a 30-year career with AT&T/Western Electric.

Randy Giancaterino (Beta Delta, 1981), above, editor and consultant for The Mt. Airy (Pa.) Express, had his article on Boston Red Sox catcher John Marzano printed in the July/August 1990 issue of PhillySport magazine. Giancaterino is a former president of Beta Delta chapter.

Congratulations to PNP Alexander Fafara (Beta Xi, 1969), who'll marry Debra Giangrande December 8, 1990, and Dave Swatsworth (Beta Lambda, 1987), who married Cathy Peterman on August 4, 1990.

Alumni Club News

Brooklyn Named Outstanding Alumni Club

For the second time in five years, the Brooklyn Alumni Club was named the Most Outstanding Alumni Club at the 1990 Summer Convention of Alpha Phi Delta in Williamsburg, Va. Consistently one of the most active clubs in the Fraternity, Brooklyn in 1989-90 maintained an impressive social and athletic calendar, and brought in more new members than any other club. Brooklyn has set a goal of $7,500 in contributions from its brothers to the Chapter Leadership Challenge, and is close to achieving that goal. At the convention's awards banquet August 23, 1990, past Brooklyn Alumni Club president Ralph "Zeke" Parmegiani (Beta Sigma, 1962) accepted the plaque from Executive Vice President John Russo.

Delaware Valley

The Delaware Valley Alumni Club commemorated the 70th anniversary of Beta Delta Chapter's charter at Philadelphia's Temple University with a dinner party November 3, 1990 at the Cafe Lido restaurant in South Philadelphia.

Delaware Valley welcomed the four brothers from the Lambda Chapter reactivation project at the University of Pennsylvania to the club's September 20 meeting. 37 brothers attended the meeting, including Vice President for Expansion James Lentini (Beta Sigma, 1981) and Past National President Albert Palazzo (Theta Beta, 1946) from the New York area, Executive Secretary Joseph Rossi (Beta Phi, 1980), Vice President for Financial Affairs Anthony Cerrone (Beta Delta, 1977), and Kleos Editor Andrew Cripps (Beta Phi, 1982). Undergraduates from Beta Delta and Gamma Tau (Neumann College) chapters also attended the meeting.

North Jersey

The North Jersey Alumni Club combated the Beta Xi chapter (N.J. Institute of Technology) in the 34th annual alumni basketball game Friday, November 2 at the N.J.I.T. gymnasium. The alumni club leads the series against the undergrads 26 to 7, but had lost the last three meetings. For information, call Past National President Al Fafara (Beta Xi, 1969) at 201-807-1216.

Also on North Jersey's social calendar are another basketball game, this time against Gamma Nu chapter (William Patterson College), Friday, November 16; and a Super Bowl party at the Beta Xi house January 27, 1991.

Catskill Alumni Club Project

(Submitted by Marshall Green, Vice President).

Eight alumni brothers from the Beta Chi chapter (State University of New York, Institute of Technology at Utica) met regularly during the past six months to establish the Catskill Alumni Club based in New Paltz, N.Y. Our purpose in forming this organization was to:

- keep in touch with one another as much as possible,
- meet new brothers from other chapters,
- support, guide and assist the Beta Chi undergraduate chapter,
- and possibly organize a new chapter at S.U.N.Y.—New Paltz.

When we first initiated the idea of an alumni club, it seemed like it would be a lot of fun—but little did we know that the pleasures and benefits of being an alumni club went beyond our wildest dreams.

Gamma Lambda Named Outstanding Chapter; Gamma Zeta Chosen As Most Improved

For its dedicated efforts to help the less fortunate in the community, the Gamma Lambda chapter of Alpha Phi Delta Fraternity at Fordham University in New York was honored with the Most Outstanding Chapter award at the 70th annual Alpha Phi Delta Summer Convention August 23, 1990 in Williamsburg, Va.

The Gamma Lambda chapter in the 1989-90 school year took on an assortment of charitable projects with brothers contributing their time on behalf of local churches, a teenage burn victim, a world hunger organization, the homeless in their Lincoln Center neighborhood, and their university.

For the past two years, Gamma Lambda brothers have helped to distribute food to the homeless in the Lincoln Center area each Saturday afternoon. This spring, Gamma Lambda brothers assisted a second homeless center in Greenwich Village. They've also conducted clothing drives for a local church in each of the past four semesters.

On March 14, 1990, Gamma Lambda collected $125 for David Aupont, a 13-year-old burn victim. The chapter sponsored a dance party April 5, featuring 12 major recording acts. The party raised money for a world hunger organization. Gamma Lambda also volunteers for Fordham's Student Network Admissions Program. Brothers lead tours for high school students visiting Fordham, and represent the university in visits to area high schools.

Villanova Most Improved Chapter

The brothers of Gamma Zeta chapter at Villanova University in Villanova, Pa. earned the Most Improved Chapter award at Alpha Phi Delta's 1990 Summer Convention by reconstructing the chapter from a band of six dedicated individuals in 1988 to Alpha Phi Delta's largest undergraduate entity in 1990. In addition to its amazing recruiting success, Gamma Zeta chapter's activity on campus and in the community gives Alpha Phi Delta an enviable reputation at Villanova. Gamma Zeta started an annual school and community charity event called Hoops for Homeless, which raises money for Philadelphia's homeless; contributed $350 to participate in a Uni-

When we were forced to graduate and get a real job—embarking on a career—we realized that there's no better feeling than getting out of work on Friday, knowing that an enjoyable weekend awaits us at the Beta Chi house. That gave us the idea of organizing an alumni club and meeting once a month, assuring us of that "Friday feeling" without the three and a half hour trip to Utica.

Our initial meeting was held in New York City on Fifth Avenue alongside the St. Patrick's Day Parade. Subsequent meetings were held in New Paltz, with a road trip to the Hamptons of Long Island.

James Salamone (Theta Beta, 1932) passed away at the age of 78, July 15, 1990.

A member of the New York Alumni Club for more than 50 years, he appeared on the national scene in the mid-1930s with his illustrations on the Kleos magazine covers. He was an art instructor and an artist in his own right. (Several Alpha Phi Delta homes are decorated with his paintings.)

James Salamone (Theta Beta, '32)

For the past 13 years he and his wife Eleanor had retired to Ft. Lauderdale, Fl., but returned to New York once a year and visited the New York Alumni Club. (By Stanley Raffa.)

Vito Battista (Rho, 1928), an architect, three-term assemblyman and six-time mayoral candidate, died May 24, 1990 in his Cypress Hills, Brooklyn, home.

Battista was born in Bari, Italy, and grew up in Brooklyn. As a teenager he built up his own ice delivery business. At 18, he sold the business for $27,000 and used the money to pay for college.

He was founder and director of the Institute of Design and Construction in Brooklyn.

He is survived by a son, a daughter, two sisters and four grandchildren. (From the New York Daily News. Submitted by Stan Raffa.)

Please include brother Joseph Zara (Xi, 1945) and his family in your thoughts and prayers. In May, Joe underwent a triple bypass heart operation, then suffered a massive stroke. As of September 30, he was in a coma in Cleveland Veterans Hospital, and had been removed from life support systems.
